November 10, 2008

2008 was the year of the gastropub and farm-to-table saturation. There were less super-fancy spots while upscale restaurants dressed as a bar in disguise. From Pan-Asian street eats at Spice Market to the meat-happy Holeman and Finch, here are the restaurants that shined this year.

4th & Swift

621 N Ave NE Ste B, Atlanta, GA 30308

The menu is simple, yet is interesting in all the right places. The space is in an old dairy building (awesome) and is fittingly decorated in a black and white theme. The location is in the most up-and-coming section of town.

Win, win, win ? win.
